As Broseph E. Lee finishes the final touches on their upcoming EP, the group is excited to enter the next phase of their career with a move to Nashville. “We are very proud to be a band from Illinois and we know that without our amazing fans up in the Midwest this move to Nashville wouldn't have been possible. Those fans combined with a strong desire to climb higher has led us here, where we can get more co-writes, take meetings, and work with the great team we have around us” explains lead singer Brock Jones.

The guys spent the last year opening shows for Dustin Lynch, Cole Swindell, Old Dominion, A Thousand Horses, and many more. Broseph E. Lee is setting a high standard for excellence through their hard work and fierce “never slow down” attitude. “This is a very exciting time for us as a band. We have been working very hard to create a brand new EP with rock producer Greg Archilla. These new songs are catchy, a bit clever, and most importantly they’re just really fun songs...We set out to make these songs for our fans and that’s exactly what we did.” says Brock.

With a total of seven members in the crew (including Tour Manager - Mike Shoults), you can find these guys working hard seven days a week. They will be the first to tell you that the last two years have been all about being on the road, perfecting their show, and writing new music. As a group, Broseph E. Lee takes a huge amount of pride in being able to reach new fans by traveling the nation in their band-funded touring machine they call “Van Morrison & Trailer Swift”!

“When I started Broseph E. Lee back in 2011, it was basically just a platform for me and my buddy to write songs and play for free beer in our hometown bar. Since then, it has really grown into a bigger operation. The line-up we have now has been together for about three years. We started writing and jamming as a group in college and we haven’t really stopped since.” When asked about the meaning of the name Broseph E. Lee, Jones says: “We get asked about that alot...The truth is...Broseph is just another word for a brother or a best friend and that is what we are promoting here. We are all best friends on a never-ending tour with each other, with our fans, with everyone, so we figure...why not just call us all Brosephs!”

The guys in Broseph E. Lee bring a high energy, rockin’ country party every time they take the stage. With the release of their 2015 EP, Fill 'Em On Up, Broseph E. Lee's music has been well-received, landing a Music Row TOP 40 Single with "Right Where She Wants Me" (37) and a Music Row TOP 60 Single with "Fill 'Em On Up" (58).
